

Andy Price

Associate

Andy is an experienced Executive Coach, Trainer, Facilitator, and Leadership Development Advisor. He has recently enjoyed working with major media groups, top advertising agencies, elite sports franchises along with government and financial institutions.

A successful corporate career in sales management and marketing led to an equally successful life as a serial entrepreneur, starting, establishing, operating and selling a series of business ventures.

Andy's approach is always entrepreneurial, impactful, rigorous and results-led. His aim is to enable individuals and businesses to achieve greater levels of performance through insightful, innovative and creative interventions.

Andy works to achieve ever greater performance by helping to get the right people, with the right mindset to do the right things; using a toolbox of training, coaching and leadership development.

In partnership with talkforce, Andy is developing new programs that will continue to improve the capability of client organisations to engage better with both their teams and their clients.

Specialties: Business & Executive Performance Coach, Sales Team Effectiveness, Effective Workload Management and Leadership Development Programs, Presentation training.