

Tom Morrison

Business Development Manager

Tom has developed a diverse and valuable set of skills, behaviours and capabilities through his experience in management, high performance teams, HR functions, teaching, and sales.

Tom's education is in business, where he holds a master's degree in management.

His strengths include stakeholder management, relationship development, strategy and sales.

He has a passion for learning and development and is skilled at providing tailored solutions that add value to our client's needs.